

This diagram illustrates the exploded view of a clear plastic storage bin. The components shown include the lid, the main bin body, and several internal dividers. The lid features a series of raised, rounded edges along its perimeter. The bin body has a similar design with raised edges and a flat base. The internal dividers are rectangular with rounded corners and are designed to fit snugly within the bin body. The entire assembly is shown in a perspective view, highlighting the interlocking nature of the components.
